Bulacan studies develop robot vs 'botcha' meat

By Terna Quinsando

IS THE MEAT you're buying safe? Count on the "botcha" robot to be able to tell if that meat is a dirty cut.

A team of high school students from Bulacan province developed the robot, which they programmed to be able to tell through color sensors if meat is fresh or derived from long-dead animals, known here as "botcha."

ON THE 13th day of a standoff with Chinese vessels off Zambales province, the Bureau of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources (BFAR) sent a craft yesterday to join a Philippine Coast Guard search and rescue ship at Panatag Shoal.

"It's the showing of the flag," President Aquino said. "We believe these are our waters. Therefore, our vessel has the right to be in our waters."

But Mr. Aquino stressed that his government was seeking a diplomatic solution to the impasse and that he had appealed to partners in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations to take a stand on the territorial dispute.

"The dispute has to be ended. It can't be left hanging forever," the President said.

U.S. Sen. Anthony Gonzalez,

chief of the Armed Forces of the Philippines Northern Luzon Command, said the BFAR ship backed up with BRP Pangasinan yesterday afternoon in the cluster of reefs and islands known internationally as Scarborough Shoal. China claims the area as part of its territory and calls it Huangyan Island.

Pangasinan relieved BRP Iloilo, which rotated to base yesterday to replenish provisions and refuel.

Aquino told reporters at Camp Aguinaldo in a phone interview that the fisheries craft

Chinese turf battles intensify Spratlys row

JOSSOBING by Chinese agencies over policy, fisheries and budget threatens to intensify tensions in the disputed South China Sea, a respected think tank warned on Monday, with the Philippines seeking more patrols to guard against China's claims.

China has territorial disputes with the Philippines, Vietnam, Brunei, Malaysia and Taiwan across the South China Sea, which Manila calls the West Philippine Sea. These countries worry over what some see as growing Chinese assertiveness in making claims over the sea's islands, reefs and shoals.

On Sunday, the Philippine regional commander of security forces based in Palawan province said he had asked for more ships and planes to be deployed to step up patrols in the

Suu Kyi party refuses seats in parliament over oath row

RANGOON—Burma's long-time Suu Kyi's opposition party refused to take its own seats in parliament on Monday because of a dispute over one word in the lawmakers' oath, but party officials played down the political and said they expected it to be resolved by early May.

The National League for Democracy party objects to allowing in the oath that says officials will "subjugate the state interests," a document they have raised in protest because it gives lawmakers power to the military and was drafted during the era of Aung Mye Thaw, the late military ruler. The lawmakers were the word "subjugate" replaced with "respect."

Analysts say President Thein Sein needs the opposition in parliament to share the world but his administration is anxious about change in the Southeast Asian country which was ruled by the military for nearly half a century.

Iranians say they took secret data from US drone

WASHINGTON—Iran claimed on Sunday to have extracted secret intelligence information from an unmanned US drone that crashed in the country's desert, sending a warning to the United States that Iran is capable of intercepting and extracting information from the Global Hawk spy plane.

The top Iranian commander of the Revolutionary Guards Brig. Gen. Amir Ali Hajjarian, suggested in remarks to the country's semi-official news agency that Iran had at least one Global Hawk spy plane in its custody, known as the RQ-700 Sentinel, though US officials denied and reports have discounted the country's claims.

Hajjarian said the evidence that he said was extracted from the drone's computer had driven revealing its operations in the months before it went down in Iran—either because it was shot down, or because it was about to be shot down, or because it experienced a technical failure, as the Americans have said.

The drone, he said, had intelligence on the military in October 2010 and returned to Afghanistan in November 2010, where US officials have acknowledged it spent, though without specifying where it was shot down. He said the drone's computer memory revealed that it had flown over the compound in Pakistan where Osama bin Laden was killed in a US raid in May 2011.

"I don't see any reason to doubt the drone's computer memory revealed that it had flown over the compound in Pakistan where Osama bin Laden was killed in a US raid in May 2011."

In Thaksin Shin's government is charged with.

The party was "not disappointed" with its electoral results in the assembly, but they said, "We are disappointed with the government, as the problem will be serious."

The oath is in an appendix to the military-backed constitution, and the party said it can be changed without the approval of 75 percent of parliament. The subject was not on the agenda in Myanmar on Monday.

Phys. Min Thaw, one of the opposition's newly elected lawmakers, said the party is pressing the issue because changing even an appendix to the constitution would be significant and highly symbolic.

"We want them to change the existing law, it will then people that the 2008 constitution can be changed," he said. "That's the point."

Thaw's closing was "I think the party's original low last year, a move that opened the way for the Kyi party to regain position that it lost in the 2010 vote in which Thaw's party was ousted."

The constitution currently allows 25 percent of the parliamentary seats to be held by representatives of the military, but the Kyi party insists that is unconstitutional. AP

Japan teen's football lost in tsunami found in Alaska

TOYOYO...A teenager who lost his home in Japan's devastating tsunami now knows that one special possession survived. A football that ended all the way in Alaska.

Officials from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) said the ball with the teenager's name scrawled on it is one of the few pieces of debris from last year's tsunami washed up on the shore side of the Pacific.

A man found the ball while working on an Alaskan island, and his wife, who is Japanese, talked with his son, 16-year-old Mitsuo Masahiro, by phone over the weekend. They plan to send the ball back to him soon.

Masahiro, from the town of Misaki, is a student at Misaki High School, and he found the ball at a beach near his home. He said he found it in a box of his father's belongings.

"I was a big surprise. I've never imagined that my ball has survived. It's amazing," Masahiro said. He said he found it in a box of his father's belongings.

BIR falls short of March collection target

By Ronald M. Domingo

THE BUREAU of Internal Revenue collected P75.2 billion in March, falling short of its target after a good showing in the first two months of the year.

Data from the BIR showed that the March collection was 8.8 percent lower than the P82.25-billion goal set for the month.

But last month's yield still 5.1% higher year-on-year

In the other hand, last month's yield was 5.1 percent higher than the P71.56 billion collected in March 2011.

The BIR extension said in a statement that it recorded its year-to-date revenue despite a non-recurring collection worth P12.3 billion recorded in March last year.

"The revenue collection of the internal revenue, however, increased by 21.28 percent over their March 2011 collection," agency officials said.

The bureau in March brought the first-quarter to revenue to P229.44 billion. The agency showed its monthly target of P232.67 billion by April 2012.

Since then, collection in the first three months was 18.6 percent higher than the P197.54 billion reported in the same period of 2011.

The BIR is expected to raise a total of P1.886 billion this year—13.4 percent higher than the P164.3 billion goal last year.

The goal of the BIR this year compares about one-third of the annual revenue target of P1.9 billion—14.2 percent of gross domestic product—that Malacanan laid out in 2012.

Noting on the attempt, the government will spend some P1.8 trillion this year, revenue agencies, particularly the BIR, are now hard pressed in keeping the budget deficit within the target ceiling of P279 billion.

Earlier this year, Internal Revenue Commissioner Din S. Manalastas Jr. stressed that the government's goal is to collect P1.88 billion in revenue from the business sector in the Philippines.

In particular, the large taxpayers' field operations division is tasked to collect P71.88 billion in revenue from those with at least P1 million in taxable income.

Also, the BIR expects to collect P9.18 billion in income tax from participants in the Malacanan goal program.

Further, the bureau estimates that it can raise P18.88 billion in total with holding taxes levied on the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

LGUs to get fair share of power sector taxes

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS should get a fair share of the P197.5 billion in revenue from the power sector in the first quarter of 2012, according to the Department of Budget and Management.

The release of this allocation comes amid growing concern, especially in Mindanao, of the upsurge in the cost of electricity in the face of a shortage of supply.

Budget Secretary Florencio B. Abad said in a statement the bureau should have local governments' share of electricity in their areas, particularly during summer when consumption is high.

The fiscal Department said that at least 80 percent of LGU share on tax revenue from the development and use of hydroelectric, geothermal and other sources of energy should be used "mainly to lower the cost of electricity" where such facilities are located.

Abad said the fund that the BDM has released were from taxes collected from coal, petroleum, geothermal, and hydroelectric power operations last year.

He said the disbursement was charged against the P2.45 billion allocated in LGU share in power taxes.

This fund release "will not only allow LGUs to fulfill their role in implementing critical programs and projects in their own communities, it will also give local governments enough liquidity to lower the cost of electricity across their territories," Abad said.

This is particularly true given that energy usage tends to spike during the summer," he added.

Of the total amount, P948 million was released to 145 in the Western Visayas region while P77.7 billion went to Bases in the Mindanao region.

Also, P88 million was allocated to Eastern Visayas, P7.5 million to Ilocos, and P1.1 million to Cordillera.

Further, the third region will get P798,000, Zamboanga Peninsula, P455,000, Northern Mindanao, P142,000, and Cagayan, P291,000.

"The Aquino administration is committed to making stable electricity for energy users in the country," Abad said.

"We trust that the release will empower our LGUs and allow them to manage electricity costs in their targeted locality, and bring down, immediately, and sustainable benefits to the communities they serve," he added. Ronald M. Domingo

Banks' resources still on the rise

By Michelle V. Flores

RESOURCES of the country's banking sector grew further in January further signaling faster growth of the economy this year, monetary officials said.

Data from the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas said the resources of universal, commercial, thrift, and rural banks in the country amounted to P7.4 billion by the end of January, rising by nearly 6 percent from P7 billion as of the same period last year.

The growth in resources was driven by higher deposits from the public and an increase in profitability of banks.

Officials said the continuing rise in banks' savings deposits reflected the people's confidence on the ability of Philippine institutions to manage their money. They said public confidence in banks had been partly aided by favorable financial performance of the sector.

FinanceWatch said that universal and commercial banks (UCBs) accounted for bulk of the banking sector's resources. Total resources of UCBs amounted to P6.46 billion, rising year-on-year by 7 percent from P6.11 billion.

Bourse players treated to buffet of stock choices

By Paolo G. Manalastas

AS EXPECTED, the Philippine stock market reached new heights in April as banks continued to shift their risk-averse stance and a weak United States into more financial markets across the Asia Pacific.

Building on the wave of bullishness, several local companies are looking to expand by raising as much money as they can—through initial public offerings (IPOs) and follow-on shares sales—before they miss their chance and the window of opportunity disappears.

Dealt with a buffet of investment choices, how can an investor choose which dish to pick as his plate without ending up leaving off some items he craves?

The Asian Lacson, head of research at brokerage firm Campa Lacson & Co., an investor, whether he has a risk-averse, portfolio-oriented or a high-risk, short-term investor, should have a well-defined set of goals.

"Choosing the right stock depends on what you want to achieve," Lacson said. "You are considering a speculative play or a long-term investment horizon (IPO)?"

The Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE) expects P757 billion in IPO equity to be raised from the local bourse this year, including the two high-profile IPOs by Cignal and the Philippine Airlines (PAL) Group.

CT Capital is raising as much as P500 billion from an April IPO, while East West Bank is planning a stock debut of up to P643 billion, marking the third time a local bank goes public in eight years.

Spurred by companies raising funds to expand the business, IPOs continue to be a popular way for companies to raise money. The 12 percent minimum public ownership required by the PSE has continued being.

responding companies that do more than just expand.

"I think the biggest indicator is that the market's going [and] if you can't do it now, you'll never do it," Lacson said.

Lacson said investors looking to make a quick buck should more actively consider smaller IPOs like East West Bank, especially those that are closely al-

Dylan mourns death of Levon Helm

BLONDIE, New York — With songs like "The High They Were Old Days Low," "The Freight" and "Up on Cripple Creek," The Band found rock blues, folk and jazz to create a sound that seemed as authentically American as a bluegrass chicken.

In truth, the group had only one Hindu member—Laxman Kulkarni.

Then, when that April 18 of complete loss from sunset at age 71, was the distance and singer who brought an orange bowl and a pair of white Adhama trousers to some of The Band's new members. Gang and helped him a bunch of musicians known mostly as Bob Dylan's backing group was one of India's most legendary acts.

Hicks and his bandmates, Camille Davis, Rick Danko, Earl Padon, Paul Leiber and Richard Manuel... were musical virtuosi who remained in the room of American music in the late 1960s as other artists moved into psychedelia, heavy metal and jazz. The group's 1968 debut, "Blaze From the Sky," and its follow-up, "The Band," remain landmarks of music of the era.

Barbara Hambly

Early on, The Band's lead singer, Bob Dylan, on his controversial electric tour of 1965-66 and (colloquially) written on the legendary "Basement Tapes," which produced "I Shall Be Released," "Rainy Day Women" and many other favorites. "Thank you for 50 years of friendship and more," he said as "his many associates, no more than 100, gathered peacefully at that beautiful, majestic, wonderful place... I mean, I'm proud of you."

Last Words
In some ways, The Band was the strangest director's cameo in the crime subgenre and a harbinger of the Bad News series. The Band led heretofore to first shows with a bang with the famous "Last Words" sequence in 1975, Eric Clapton, Neil Young, Joni Mitchell and Dylan were among the stars who played the show in San Francisco, filmed by Martin Scorsese for a movie of the same name, released in 1976.
